

This week's discussion questions were designed for you and your spouse to discuss together, one-on-one, rather than in a small group setting.

Sex in marriage is one of God's greatest gifts, but in a lot of marriages, the fire has died. The health of your marriage comes down to the little exchanges that occur every day—a smile, a nod, a touch, a kiss, or simply turning toward each other when you speak. Turn toward each other every day and see what a difference that makes.

Discussion Questions

1. Compare what today's culture teaches about sex to what God's Word teaches us. How can you instill God's perspective into your own life or the lives of your kids, so that we can experience the best that God has for us?
2. Husbands, how are you doing when it comes to noticing your wife and letting her know how beautiful she is? Wives, how are you doing with communicating to your husband that he's wanted? Talk about how each of these actions would impact your marriage if they happened on a regular basis.
3. How can you create space in your week to allow for more relational intimacy with your spouse? What can get in the way of this happening for you? What are 1-2 ways you can you start turning toward each other every day?

Challenge

Have a conversation with your spouse this week, asking them how fulfilled they feel in their sexual intimacy with you. And then, if needed, talk about some ways to rediscover romance within your marriage.

Commit to Memory

So they are no longer two, but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, let no one separate. Matthew 19:6
